is light. I first, we sak what is to be gained by the war, ded we obtain all its authors demand? Some adall thousands of square miles of territory. But hat pay the cost of the war in money, in mee, in a, in weste of energies, prostration of business the paralysis of national industry, which we are beag to experience, and which cup of dregs we must, meless refuse, to the bottom. We see men standthe corners of streets, making wry faces about the as in England and the depression of business here sequence; but we do not suppose they are fools, agh they talk so. They very well know that the failures have not really disturbed business in this ry. Were it not for the infameus war with Mexstread of qualifing at any failures that have yet ocd in England, our Shylocks would chuckle at the weep which those would give them over the come of the world. They would not only have outlroom to riot upon American industry, but that of Euand India also would have lain naked under their

The weather continues cold and cheerless, and up to this morning I believe that no time has been set for the departure of the train. To move many of the disabled and infirm officers at this time from their werm rooms, and expose them to the cold and discomforts of camp, would doubtless endanger their lives, and this is one cause of the delay. There is also a story in circulation that the Mexicans have no inconsiderable force at Rio Frio—some even put it down at 7.000—ready to attack and destroy our wagons on the march.
